Course:

This training goes beyond the content taught in massage therapy schools to provide a solid theoretical and hands-on practice in Pregnancy Massage. The participant will be successful in creating effective goals and treatments for their pregnant clients relative to their stage of pregnancy and their state of well-being. Hands-on content will relate to draping, positioning, effective massage techniques and adjunctive modalities such as IASTM, cupping, and exercise/self care strategies. Clear guidelines related to signs and symptoms, contraindications, and possible medical issues will also be addressed.
